THANKS TO THE DALLAS MARKET CENTER AND SPONSORS FOR THEIR GENEROSITY

Welcome to TAID's new Email Announcement notifying you of our Day of Education, February 5th, 2010. Please forward to your Registered Interior Designer and Architect friends to let them know about the classes. All TBAE registrants must renew annually by their birthdays. Scroll down for Class Descriptions.

Class Descriptions

8 a.m. LED's and Sustainable Interior Design, 1 CEU, Sustainability. Henry Yiu, Electrical Engineer. LED lighting technology taught by demonstration of lamping, understanding Kelvin, making color temperature differences work in your projects and dimming issues associated with LED's.

9 a.m. Solar and Wind Power:What Works in Texas, 1 CEU, Sustainability. Henry Yiu. Solar, wind power and geo-thermal are being marketed in North Texas. Mr. Yiu's second hour focuses on which energy saving proposals will work in our part of Texas.

10:10 a.m. International Residential Building Codes for Interiors, Kimberly Marks, ASID, IIDA, RID. .1 CEU, HSW. IDCEC # 7121 (in renewal). Kimberly Marks is current President of the NCIDQ Board of Directors and will present two hours of CEU's. She is an Industry Member of the International Code Council Industry Advisory Council.

This first hour focuses on recent changes and current codes governing construction of residential structures, fire separations, habitable spaces, glazing in hazardous locations, egress, stairways and landings, handrails and guards plus much more.

11:10 a.m. Structures in Interior Design, Kimberly Marks, ASID, IIDA, RID, .1 CEU, HSW, IDCEC # 7981 Basic understanding of structural loads, components, inspections, working with existing windows and columns and floor loadings will help planners of building interiors work to maintain a building's structural integrity.

LUNCH is a seated lunch shared with our generous Dallas Market Center sponsors. They also provide coffee and tea served with fresh muffins and pastries at the start of our class day.

12:50 p.m. Energy Star Basics for Commercial Interiors, Patrick Kelly, EPA, Energy Star Program Liaison, .1 CEU, HSW This basic course will open up a myriad of resources for lighting (over 25,000 lighting fixture recommendations), appliances and other rated products listed by the Environmental Protection Agency. Mr. Kelly, IES, ASHRAE, NFRC expert, presents an overview of energy rating tools for lighting, heating and air conditioning as well as windows. Clients can estimate monetary savings by using these rating systems.

2 p.m. Planning for Residential Electronics Systems, .1 CEU, HSW, IDCEC 5692. Seth Lauritzen, Dallas Sight and Sound. Planning for the space, electrical, framing and ventilation prior to developing the documented drawings will be taught in this seminar. A checklist of questions to ask proposed Electronic Systems Contractors will help you find knowledgeable AV providers.

3:10 p.m. Making Hearing and Sight Impaired Clients Safe at Home, .1 CEU, HSW. Bill O'Connor, Dallas Sight and Sound. Learn ways to provide your deaf, hard of hearing, low vision or blind client with audible/visible warning options for their homes that alert them to fire or other emergencies. Which wander management techniques are recommend for elder client protection? Be able to implement attractive and cost effective solutions when the need arises.

4:20 p.m. Beautiful Barrier Free, .1 CEU. Barrier Free. Julie Reynolds, ASID, RID and Jodie Yake, HafeleAmericas Hardware representative. Barrier Free interior design can be beautiful. Showers without thresholds, stunning accessible lavatories, toilets and ADA compliant alternatives to ugly grab bars are featured. Universal design and visitability team up with attractive hardware to erase the "gas station restroom" image.

You may attend classes at the times you wish, but if you are staying for lunch, TAID must turn in reservations to the caterer 3 days before the class is scheduled. Walk-ins are welcome to attend classes but without reservations for lunch, plan to eat at the restaurants in the DMC.
